ST. HELENA, USA | ALILA NAPA VALLEY | KREOO

The Alila Napa Valley resort, in the Californian county of Napa, was designed by Yabu Pushelberg with great attention to detail and careful consideration of the surroundings. The five-star resort fits perfectly in the landscape, built with materials that respect the context and with many references to natural materials. Wood paneling and floors, linen and cotton fabrics, leather details together shape its public and private environments. Marble and stone cover the bathroom floors and walls, envisioned like private spas. The Kreoo collections stand out here, with the Bowl n.2 and Bowl n. 9 countertop washbasins from the Nabhi collection, along with the custom-made countertops and surfaces in marble mosaic. The Nabhi collection features a powerful material sense and balance of proportions born of a union between craftsmanship and innovative technology.
